MOVE TO SAVE "OLD IRONSIDES" PLEDGES TO GREECE BROKEN

Constantine Denounces the Unheard of High Handness of the Entente Powers

Athens, Jan. 20.—King Constantine of Greece, in an interview with an Associated Press correspondent, denounces the entente allies for "the unheard of high-handedness of their recent action toward Greece."

King Constantine was greatly moved as he related one after the other the long list of what he called "the allies' encroachments on the sovereignty of Greece culminating in the occupation of Corfu and the blowing up of the bridge at Demir Hissar."

"It is the nearest east," said the king, "for Great Britain and France to talk about the violation of the neutrality of Belgium and Luxembourg after what they themselves have done and are doing here. I have tried in every way I know to get fair play in the British and French press and to obtain a fair hearing from the British and French public. No sooner had the British newspapers attacked Greece with the most amazing perversion of fact and misrepresentation of motives, than I called one of their correspondents and gave him facts to face."

Latest War Bulletins

Rome, Jan. 20.—Montenegro has resumed hostilities against the Austro-Hungarians, it was officially announced at the Montenegrin consulate here today.

The consulate stated that King Nicholas and the Montenegrin government had rejected the peace terms offered by Austria and that fighting had been resumed on all fronts.

London, Jan. 20.—General Aylmer's main force, which set out from Iman Ali Gharbi to relieve General Townshend's British army in Kut-el-Amara, Mesopotamia, is only seven miles from its objective, it was announced in the House of Commons today. The relief army has reached Esen, on the Tigris River.

Paris, Jan. 20.—Official announcement was made here today that peace negotiations between Montenegro and Austria had never taken place. King Nicholas, it was stated, is at Podgoritz, in Southern Montenegro, with his troops, continuing resistance to the Austro-Hungarian invaders.

London, Jan. 20.—The Admiralty announced this afternoon that a British submarine had gone aground on the Dutch coast. The crew has been saved.

London, Jan. 20.—The First Volunteers under Lord Derby's recruiting scheme began reporting today. Their number about 350,000.

Petrograd, Jan. 20.—Emperor Nicholas has left Petrograd and is reported to be proceeding to the front near Czernowitz. The Teuton troops confronting the Russians in this region have been strongly reinforced.

Athens, Jan. 20.—The Greek government is planning an immediate protest against the further occupation of Greek territory by the allies.

LILLE MUNITION DEPOT BLOWN UP; 200 DEAD

London, Jan. 20.—The British Loyal Answerer, says an American dispatch received today, declares that the recent explosion at Lille resulted in a terrible catastrophe.

Dispatched a few days ago said that an explosion had taken place at Lille, caused by bombs from allied aeroplanes, but the extent of the damage was not given.

SKIRTS LONGER IN SPRING STYLES

New York, Jan. 20.—After waiting almost up to their knees all winter, fashionable women will run to Spring once down over their ankles, also wearing either a wreath of a hat or a whopping big one. At least, so said Miss Georgetown, home today from Paris.

Navy Department Recommends Sum to Save "Old Ironsides," Tinkham Wires the American

The AMERICAN today received a telegram from Congressman George Holden Tinkham saying there was a good chance that the Federal government would act to save Old Ironsides, now rotting at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The telegram reads as follows:

EDITOR, AMERICAN: I saw the Navy Department and the House Naval Affairs Committee this morning. I find there is a recommendation of the Department now before the Committee for one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to fix up the Constitution.

There is apparently a good chance of this being favorably reported. I will personally do all possible for the purpose. It is a most worthy and patriotic one, the Constitution being one of the first three boats constructed for the American navy, and having been ordered constructed by Washington.

Meanwhile, the slogan, "Protect Old Ironsides" is spreading over New England and gaining strength all the time.

BILL TO ABOLISH 2D CORPS CADETS

A bill to abolish the Second Corps Cadets and transfer the command from the infantry to the artillery arm of the State military met with the unanimous agreement of enlisted men today and was advocated by Major Thornebush D. Howe and other officers of the organization.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Continued have been awarded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for 5,000 steel cars, at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. The company's steel cars will build 5,000 of the cars and the Baltimore and Ohio Company the other 5,000.

New 'Revelations' in Uptake Conspiracy Show How Mother Was Won Over to Cabaret Bride

By International News Service. Chicago, Jan. 20.—With indictments standing against them charging conspiracy to murder their father, mother and sister, Irving and Herbert Uptake, sons of a millionaire Oak Park family, remained in jail today of their own choice.

More information today was placed in the hands of detectives working on the connection of Kelyce De Onome, Spanish singer, and elegant bride of Herbert Uptake, with the murder plot.

The newest revelations are that Herbert and his bride were visited by Kelyce's mother when they lived at the Netherlands Hotel. There was a dramatic scene in which the older Mrs. Uptake threatened her son about the neck of the cabaret singer and told her that "she and the child would never want for anything."

CRIPPLING OF NAVY IS DENIED BY GREY

London, Jan. 20.—Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, today denied in Parliament the charges that the Foreign Office had crippled the navy by demanding warships to carry out its plans. He promised to make a complete statement on the subject next week.

ASQUITH EXPLAINS GALLIPOLI FAILURE

London, Jan. 20.—"Ourselves at Gallipoli (Gallipoli peninsula) was impracticable," said Premier Asquith in explaining why British troops had been withdrawn from that sphere of warfare.

ANOTHER DU PONT PLANT EXPLOSION

Hopewell, Va., Jan. 20.—An accident at the Du Pont Powder Company's works exploded today, causing $100,000 damage to the plant.

'PSYCHOLOGY OF GREED SHOWN IN COURT'

By DOROTHY DIX. Providence, R. I., Jan. 20.—The poet's dictum that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," never had a more vivid illustration than is afforded by the Mohr case.

The whole of the last session was a study in the morbid psychology of jealousy and greed that seemed more like a scene of the Maupassant than it did a happening in real life. These witnesses, one after the other, bit by bit and stroke upon stroke, painted the picture of Mrs. Mohr, as they knew her and showed her as a woman, so interested in being neglected by her husband for younger and prettier women, and at losing her position as the wife of a rich man with the appearance of wealth, that she was turned into an almost Medusa-like creature. These witnesses showed her as a woman so lost to every sense of honor and delicacy that she taught her little son, ten, to spy continually upon his mother. Continued on Page 2, Column 1.

WOMAN HELD, SAYS SHE'S T. R.'S NIECE

London, Jan. 20.—A young woman from New York, who says her name is Miss Thelma Leland and asserts she is a niece of Theodore Roosevelt, is detained here by the police on examination as to her sanity. It is said that if her relatives in New York will send for her she will be sent home immediately without proceedings for commitment to an asylum being instituted. She came here on war relief work.

SWEDEN SHUTS OFF WOOD PULP EXPORTS

By International News Service. Stockholm, Jan. 20.—A decree prohibiting the exportation of wood pulp has been promulgated, to go into effect tomorrow. This is regarded as an other measure of reprisal against England for the seizure of Swedish ships.

Convict Woman in Liqueur Case

Mrs. Annie Howe was convicted of having for sale intoxicating liquor in the East Boston court today. She was fined $100 and the case was continued till tomorrow for sentence.

HEALIS SWEARS TO CONFERENCE ON MURDER PLAN

Providence, Jan. 20.—The shooting of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr and Miss Emily G. Burger on the night of August 31 was dramatically described on the stand today for the first time by George W. Heals, the death car chauffeur, who confessed he was in the plot he said was hatched by Mrs. Mohr to murder her husband.

Heals, who is the State's star witness, said that he stopped the machine at a designated spot. While he was pretending to adjust the carburetor he heard two shots, and looked up just as two more were fired.

"I could see the blood streaming down the doctor's face," said Heals, "and I ran back to the rear of the car and cried: 'Oh, my God.' I saw Miss Burger jump up and saw her fall over the door, and she hit her head on the door. As I picked her up there was another shot and the bullet struck Miss Burger. I saw Spelman fire this one, and as he did I dropped her again. Spelman then ran into the woods, and I picked Miss Burger up and dragged her across the road and put her on the grass."

Autoists Face First 'Dazzling Light' Charges

The first prosecutions under the new "dazzling light" auto law have been heard in the Roxbury court today. Patrolman Blake and Maguire complained that the auto of Charles S. Cook, Jr., of West Newton, at 3:45 p. m., on January 19 showed lights which had a dazzling effect, while near the corner of Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue. The court said this might have been due to the grade of the street, or the turn at the corner, and found Cook not guilty.

EX-MAYOR HART
87, HONORED
AT BANQUET

Former Mayor Thomas N. Hart of this city, one of New England's best known and green old men, was summoned to a luncheon at the City Club by about 100 prominent citizens today to celebrate his birthday. He is now eighty-seven years old.

He is the next to the oldest of the group. The oldest is Samuel Abbot Green whose feeble condition prevented him from attending. The next oldest is over three—former Mayors John F. Fitzgerald, Edwin L. Curtis and Joseph P. McKim. Mayor James G. Conley, the present executive, was present.

The guest of honor was congratulated over and over again in the informal manner proceeding the going to table and dance.

George S. Smith, vice-president of the City Club, introduced Mayor Curley as the guest of honor. The guests included Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president of the City Club, and Mayor Joseph P. Mayors present. Thomas E. Fitzgerald, James G. Conley, Mayor James G. Conley, Daniel J. Kiley, who was president of the City Club, and Mayor Curley were the Hart administrators, and finally Mr. Hart himself.

Easy Way to Keep Your Hair in Curl

If you have trouble keeping your hair liquid in curl, you'll do well to try plate liquid. In curl, apply a little at night with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The hair will dry in the prettiest waves and curls that you can arrange, and the effect will appear altogether natural. Instead of that dull, dried-out look which has been healed from gray, the hair will be bright, lustrous and beautiful.

Liquid silencing is, of course, perfectly harmless to hair and scalp, and is neither greasy nor gummy. If you will get a few more drops of your finger you will find it

Their Married Life

Helen Is Caught and Agrees to Tell Warren All About Ned Burns' Visit

Heston, 49, is Jewish. A New York Jew, he says, "for everyone had been listening to me."

West, who interrupted, said he could feel "a relief" relieving further. And Warren was looking at the results. A faded expression on his face. Every one was pausing a moment for tea to explain.

It was the lastest party. The world was not there. Nothing was left. But you might have said

"I don't like a great deal, but not only—Heh! thought I was (sings) There's a little bit of every thing in her line, and her face is just what I like.
 "I wish now that we were going to be friends, and again we return. "Tell me something about you, and are you from the West or they say?"
 Yes, I am from Kansas, and I

"Her Likeness!"

By H. BRINKLEY
Journalist and Novelist

A girl who has so many evil ways
 Would have caused Job's patience to forsake him,
 Yet so rich in all that a girlhood's praise,
 And so true, if upon her goodness gaze,
 A little better she would surely make him.

Yet is this girl I sing in naught unknown,
 And very far from angel yet, I trust;
 Her faults, her virtues, are pure, and human,
 Yet she's more lovable as simple woman
 Than anyone diviner that I know.

—From the poem by Owen Wister.

A Fictionless Fable

The Girl Was Late in Finding a Partner, but She Had the Better of Her Friends at That

By ANN LISLE

THEREIN was once a little girl who was always the very last to get to school and the very first to be dismissed to school festivities when the boys were home.

My time she was eighteen Brazil was well aware of the fact that "Joana wasn't especially interests had begun to wear black as a matter of business and dressed habitually to an artifice perceptible in long sweeping black dresses and was so meretricious by her figure and the were to that of fat Mrs. de Mello's Nature had not got a little of beauty; but Joana grew into a good enough degree to manage to add to a lot of beauty in Nature ended in her." She had a snub nose and a generous mouth and twinkling, rosy cheeks and a rather plump face and I suspected that none of the boys could be her brother.

John and Janet and Genevieve were all a fraction older than I was and they, and they were sure to have love affairs and good times and I was a little envious and accepted that, and having accepted it, saw no object in worrying over it.

but decided instead to go after the sort of success that depended upon her rather than the sort that must come from natural gifts and abilities. Bessie took stock of her abilities. There was nothing in particular she could do except keep her temper on all occasions, and that she decided would just about qualify her for a job as a shop where women's wear was sold.

Bessie managed to get a position

It depicted that decade keeping her temper as had other talents. These were an unerring eye for color combinations and a keen ability to read other women's good points, a soothing effect on high-strung creatures who didn't like to be walked on, and a strong sense of humor—a sense of humor that was lovely and serene, and an ability to see the heart in the problems of other women.

These Are the Results of Democratic Futility

WHO began this war and which side will win it, or whether it ends in a draw, are questions over which individual Americans may work themselves up to fever heat, but which are of no great permanent importance to the United States as a nation.

The problems which ARE of vital importance to us are two:

1. What is to be the naval and military preparedness of the United States to maintain its rights and the free use of the sea highways and to defend itself against the possible attack of any power or combination of powers when they are done fighting among themselves? and

2. What is to be the preparation of the United States to meet the economic and trade wars which Germany and Great Britain will at once make upon our products and manufactures in the world's markets?

We assume that even a Democratic Congressman can grasp the proposition that the war is bound to come to an end.

And it is only a little higher grade than a Democratic Congressman's—say that of a reasonably bright high school boy—to perceive that right now both Great Britain and Germany are busily preparing to wrest the bulk of the world-trade from all other nations, including our own, by an economic warfare waged with the industrial machinery and workers which necessity has taught them to mobilize so scientifically for military purposes.

Since, no matter how the war goes, the end of it will still see Great Britain in possession of the hugest naval and mercantile fleets, the competition we shall first meet will be the competition of the seafaring and manufacturing British people.

It will not be the slow-going British competition of the past, either. Instead of that clumsy competition, we shall have the skillful competition of government-owned or government-aided industries, mobilized on the scientific German plan.

Before the war Germany was the most thoroughly organized and socialized State in the world—an empire in name, a socialized democracy in fact.

For that reason Germany was rapidly pushing England out of the markets of the world, because England was an individualized democracy, controlled and to a great extent exploited by an aristocracy of descent and an aristocracy of money.

The war has taught the British mind—which is not dull when in chase of pounds sterling—a lesson it will never forget.

The economic England of 1913 has vanished, and when the war clouds have blown away we shall have to face the trade competition of an England reorganized and mobilized along the precise lines of the fiercely-denounced Prussian militarism and State Socialism.

And what is this Democratic administration and Democratic majority in Congress doing to prepare this nation to meet either the peril of naval and military aggression or the certainty of economic warfare upon our United States?

Between them they are now just what they have done during the three years they have been in power.

What is that?

Why, letting our naval and military defences dwindle and decay and delivering our commerce, bound hand and foot, into the hands of our foreign competitors and trade enemies.

Do you ask for the proof?

Well, listen!

We built the Panama Canal with our own American men and money, and to encourage and develop American shipping enacted a law permitting American ships, under certain circumstances of voyage, to pass through the canal free of tolls.

What happened to that wise and helpful legislation?

It was REPEALED, through the urgent solicitation and strong pressure of the administration.

And why was it repealed? Because ENGLAND AND GERMANY objected to our American ships passing toll-free through an American canal.

And why did England and Germany object?

Because this freedom from tolls would have given our American shipping a chance to compete with the cheaper-built ships and the cheaper-paid crews of the British and German merchant marine.

So we humbled ourselves to their demand and ate dirt at their behest, and struck our own harassed and bedeviled merchant marine another blow in the face at foreign dictation.

In addition to this, the administration further tightened the strangle hold on our merchant marine by an act that can best be told by giving the following paragraph from an editorial in the AMERICAN nearly two years ago:

It was Oscar Underwood who wrote into the tariff bill the clause granting a reduction of 5 per cent. in duties on goods imported in American ships. This measure, of such vital importance to American shipping, was vigorously debated in the House and the Senate. It was properly considered and discussed in its every aspect. Finally being adopted, it went with the act to the President and was signed. Almost instantly the President, through the Attorney-General, ordered that clause of the law ignored.

This preferential duty was intended to encourage and build up the American merchant marine, and it would have done that very thing automatically.

What next did this patriotic and far-sighted Democratic administration and Congress do to American industries and sea trade?

They did two things. They passed legislation which drove the American transoceanic merchant marine clean off the Pacific, and handed the transportation of American goods to and from the Orient to our dangerous enemies, the Japanese.

And having thus destroyed the American merchant marine and future trade in the Pacific, they enacted a stupid tariff to cripple our industries and ruin our seafaring trade on the Atlantic.

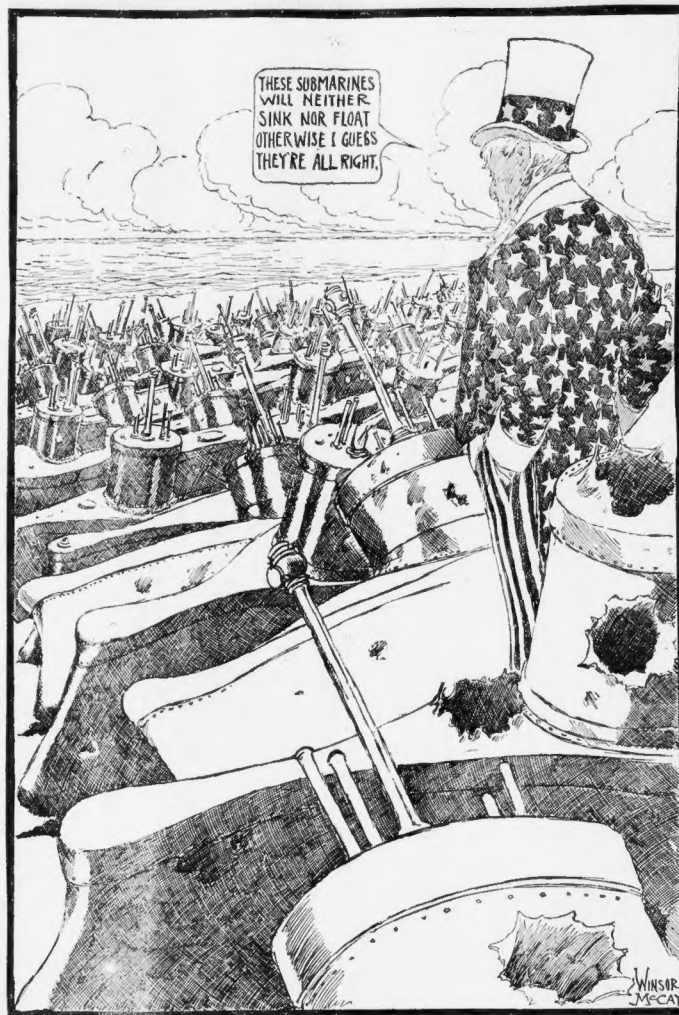

And nothing but the unforeseen emergencies and demands of this huge war kept this Democratic asininity from being as completely successful in destroying our Atlantic merchant marine as it unhappily was in destroying our Pacific merchant marine.

And now what is this Democratic administration and this Democratic majority in Congress doing in these stirring and all-eventful times, when foresight and courage and DECISION and ACTION would put our world trade and our merchant marine in an inappreciable position of power and long-continued prosperity?

Why, they are playing the whole huge stake into the hands of England and Germany. They are permitting and even encouraging the British navy to block our trade in every port of the world, to cripple and to destroy the growth of our commerce, not only with the friendly neutral States of Europe, but actually with the friendly neutral States of South America, so that when the war ends and the race for commercial supremacy and sea-going business begins WE WILL BE SO WEAK AND CRIPPLED THAT WE CANNOT EVEN START.

There will be only three competitors for sea-carrying business and world trade: England, Germany and Japan.

And every day that our government subsidizes the grossly illegal acts by which the British navy is crippling our production, shutting us out of our neutral markets, hindering the growth of our marine, rifling our mails and dictating in our very home ports what we can purchase and sell or what we cannot, that same government of ours is elevating the future commercial prosperity of England and Germany and Japan and depressing our own future trade, prosperity and power.

The moment the war ends the mobilized industrial plants and the mobilized and subsidized merchant marines of England, Germany and Japan will start in the race for the business of the world's markets and the carrying trade of the oceans.

And where will WE be in the midst of such competition? Nowhere.

And do but consider what a position we might have occupied had we busily built and bought a government merchant marine; had our yards been running night and day constructing additions to our navy; had we maintained our reasonable advantage in the Panama Canal, and had we compelled England as well as Germany and Austria to respect our rights on the seas and made entente allies and Teuton allies alike let our naval shipping pass free and unmolested over the highways of the oceans.

Why, at the end of this war we would have been in a position of naval strength and commercial development from which no thinkable combination of enemies or competitors could have toppled us.

The past is dead, and the noble opportunities that were ripe to the hands of statesmen of a high order of intellect have been frittered away by the little men in Washington who could not even faintly perceive the presence of those opportunities, colossal as were their figures, when they stood at the door knocking for admission.

That is but one thing to do now, citizens.

That is to forget regrets and to go earnestly to work to do what can yet be done to prepare the nation for the time of possible military and of inevitable commercial struggle that is not far off.

Let us arouse ourselves like men to the task of compiling this administration and this Congress to show at least the common sense to begin to arm the nation for its future defense.

Let us try to spur these politicians on to some practical measures to redeem the country's prestige, to protect our ships on their lawful voyages, to unite the neutral nations in a league for the mutual welfare, and to concern themselves more about PROTECTING AMERICAN RIGHTS than about RENDERING AID AND SYMPATHY TO FOREIGN BELLETERENTS, whether Teutons or allies.

It may be, citizens, that you cannot move these Democratic dishes of skim-milk to any honorable action. But we can all try.

And if we fail, there is still something that we can do.

We can wait a few months, and then we can sweep Washington so clean of these little, vain, strutting, futile, farcical, spineless, pinheaded Democratic pork-barrel politicians that the remnant left will not make even a respectable minority.

Are You at Peace in Your Family?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

IF you are an American-born citizen, naturally your first and foremost reason for being thankful at this time of year will be that you are not living in a war-riddled country. We all know what is the condition of Europe today.

Little lads and grandsons,
Women old with care,
But all the men are dying men
Or dead men over there.

No one stops to dig graves;
Who has time to spare?
The dead men, the dead men,
How the dead men stare!

Kings are out a-bunting—
Oh, the sport is rare,
With dying men and dead men
Dead men everywhere.

But while you deplore this condition of things existing abroad, and while you congratulate yourself that you are an American and out of the war zone, suppose you give yourself a little self-analysis, as a holiday exercise.

Are you really living in a world of peace? Are you at peace with your associates in the business or social world where you dwell? Are you at peace in your family, which includes your in-laws?

Are you at peace with yourself? Unless you can answer all three of these questions in the affirmative you have no right to talk about the horrors of war and how sad it is that the world has returned to barbarism.

You must know that war is an accumulative thing, and if no one individual indulged in quarrelsome thoughts or words war could never come.

No doubt you can relate glibly to any one who will listen just how this war originated and just how it could have been avoided. But can you, even to your own mind, explain just why you do not get on better with your fellow men?

There died, recently, in Greater New York, under tragic circumstances, a still young woman who was reared in a Christian home, accustomed to attending divine services twice every Sunday and who said grace always at her own table. She was an only daughter and her parents possessed a comfortable fortune, and she was reared with every luxury. Yet she early developed a quarrelsome nature which was not controlled by her parents, who, because she was an only daughter, and gifted with beauty and intellect, allowed her to dominate them.

The mother was quick tempered and the home became a scene of continual discord. This Christian born and reared child of good fortune rapidly developed into a home tyrant. She married and became the sort of wife that she had been a daughter. Her parents died liberally and actually of broken hearts.

The young woman, after degenerating mentally and morally, through her selfishness and lack of self-control, ended her life by suicide. All this was done in a land of peace. It is sadder than any of the tragedies of war.

In many Christian homes there are gatherings of relatives, all priding themselves upon being good Christians, yet there is still, unkind criticism, jealousy and fault-finding to mar the social pleasures of the hour.

Sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, mothers-in-law and fathers-in-law will be made unhappy and will make unhappy for others.

Before you deplore the evils of war or congratulate yourself on being a peaceful person dwelling in a peaceful land, indulge in self-analysis, and find out if you are doing all you can toward creating peace and good will in your own special environments.
